

Engineering the future of food

Come and put us to the test

Lingwood

We engineer solutions to overcome our customers' problems, no matter how small these problems may be.

Spiders, flies, aphids, bugs and other insects and foreign bodies all lead to customer complaints, dissatisfaction and product recall or have until now.

The team at Lingwood have developed a washing system to separate and remove these types of floating debris from fresh produce and we invite you to come and put us and the washer to the test.

Come and see the washer in operation for yourself from Monday 15th July until Friday 19th July

Adjustable wash sections before and after the insect removal system.

Product is submerged and floating debris rises to the surface through the separation system.

Side flume and filter system separates floating Debris from the water.

The system separates floating debris from your good product.

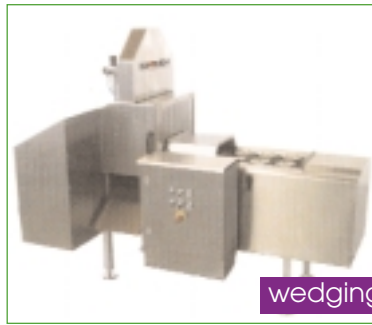

After separation the water, containing this debris, is passed through a filter system before being re-introduced back in the washer.
